

What causes a dystopia?

Different people have different ideas. Dystopia also varies according to different people's thought. However, the most common factors are already chosen to be gone into further details. The factors include crime, injustice and favoritism. Just take a look into the below and the reasons should be convincing enough.

In most ideas of a utopia, this is one of the most unwanted situations, crime. People lose their belongings, loved ones and even homes due to this. Right now, pretty much every country has this terrible problem. Governments and authorities increase the levels of penalty as well as punishment in order to prevent this from happening but the daredevils just don't seem to care. Greed, economical and personal problems are some of the very main roots for this major problem to sprout, building one of the main arteries of a dystopia.

Economical insecurities and such problems lead to bribery of officials to clear one's crime. Due to the desperate need of money, policemen and judges are willing enough to ignore the laws and rules to take bribes. This type of situation often occurs in poor countries where the rich commit a crime and does this to cover it up. Sometimes, the poor victim has to take the punishment for the crime all because of bribing. Isn't that just plain injustice, so how could this ever be left out of the list? However, don't get too excited just yet, there's a treat coming up next.

This is one of the things, very bad and common things, unknown to people outside the government of some countries of the world's poorest and underdeveloped countries. The higher-ranking people would be looking for people who are good with the acting and talking to promote. Once they find those people, they would be under their charm. Abilities or work effort won't matter, but the only thing is to be favored. The hard-workers would be wasting their strengths while the smoochers just won't do anything much, isn't that unfair? The country would not improve due to this as a factor.

The stated facts have been taken from the observation of the problems of the real- life dystopia. Meaning the chaos occurring in the different countries in the news and so on. They were then thought and looked through for the common possible causes and analyzed. Crime, injustice and favoritism are definitely the causes of the very main topic-dystopia.
