

What is needed to create a utopia?

How does one create a world that everyone would like to live in?

According to the Bible there was once such a thing – the Garden of Eden. Although in that story humans couldn't handle a perfect world because of the teasing snake that made them break their promise to God. Obviously they weren't strong enough and didn't deserve to live in Paradise. So to recreate this paradise on earth, this utopia, humans must find inner peace, work hard and compromise.

The first step towards a utopia is finding inner peace. For how can one make a peaceful world without being peaceful? To find inner peace one has to let go of the hatred they carry inside them, take a pause and spend some time with themselves and mentally solve their problems. If all problems are solved they will be calm content and willing to work hard.

To reach a utopia, mankind can't just sit and wait for a miracle to occur. They cannot expect change unless they make an impact themselves and become a part of the change. Humans today are lazy compared to what they were like a hundred years ago. With all of the technology they have access to now, one can only imagine what sort of miracles humans could achieve nowadays only by working hard. Of course, all children must have their childhood and all people must have the time to rest and have a moment of peace. So what can be done? Look at how people have evolved through the decades. They have used their creativity to come up with solutions to major problems and invented things using their creativeness, originality and ability to come up with new things. These people have had a sincere interest for what they have done. So the second step towards a utopia is finding a passion for something, finding out what one does better than everyone else and put their heart and soul into it. That way all people's individuality will be used wisely and it will be seen as a great advantage. But sometimes individuality can become a problem.

All people are different and special- They think differently and don't always have the same opinion. That is why people from all over the world should get together for a meeting, talk to each other and try to come up with their own ideas to create a utopia. Obviously there will be arguments and anger from people with different ways of thinking. That is why they have to compromise to make the world a paradise. They have to learn how to listen to each other, take in one another's ideas and come up with solutions on how they can make peace. If they compromise they might actually get along in the future.

In many years from now, humans might be able to create a utopia. Hopefully we will agree that there is no way to make the world just the way they want it. Mankind always evolves to become better humans, better humans and better members of society. When the time comes that they can accept and respect each other whatever opinion or way of thinking others may have, only then can the dream of a utopia come true.
